FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1875.

A RAIN-DROP.

(From the Persian.)

Noiseless and swift a rain-drop sank
Into the sea.
Silent the sea the rain-drop drank,
And made no sign. "Ah, me! Ah, me!"
The rain-drop cried, "Here am I lost.
No thirsty land
To cool and save! Of one drop's cost
What knows the bitter salt sea sand?"

Into an oyster's open shell,
Deep in the sea,
Noiseless and swift the rain-drop fell,
And by slow, subtle alchemy,
Into a shining pearl was changed;
A pearl so white,
No diver who the deep sea ranged
Had seen or dreamed a fairer sight.

Today, the peerless, snowy gem
Men kneeling see
Set in a royal diadem,
And kings count up its pedigree,
They reckon not the rain-drop lost
By thirsty lands
From bloom and tree, Of that drop's cost
Naught knew the bitter salt sea sands.

—H. H., in the Christian Union.

SUNDRIES.

A man who called in at a Newburg (N. Y.) jeweler's the other day to consult the regulator, remarked, as he got out paper and pencil, that, as he didn't happen to have his watch with him, he'd "just mark the correct time down, and set the watch when he got home."

Says the Burlington Hawkeye: Briefly stated, our financial views are these: Tie-backs are better than greenbacks. They are in greater demand; they are more constantly in circulation; they are always buoyant, dreadfully buoyant; they are always good for their face, and are always quoted above par, or near either.

Calloway county, Ky., is ashamed of possessing the meanest man in the world. He went to one of his neighbors to borrow a meal sack, and on learning that the sacks had just been washed refused to accept one, as too much meal would stick to it. The same man generally contrives to avoid paying his poll tax.

A Texas judge is credited with the following decision; "The fact is, Jones, the jail is an old, rickety affair, as cold as an iron wedge. You applied to this court for a release on bail, giving it as your opinion that you would freeze to death there. The weather has not moderated, and to keep you from freezing, I will direct the sheriff to hang you at four o'clock this afternoon."

A provincial paper says a witness was asked by a county court judge, recently: "Did you go to the party yourself?" Witness: "Yes, sir." Judge: "And what did he say to you?" Witness: "He told me to go to the devil, sir." "And so" says the judge, "You came to the county court!"

"Wa'al, yes," said the old man, as he painfully leaned on his cane, "I am kinder aging, and I feel it more and more every day. Only last year I used to be able to walk round Union Park every morning, and now my rheumatiz is so bad that when I've got half way round all I can do is to turn round and hobble back."

Hints to horsemen: If your horse is in the habit of kicking, use a low board, and your horse will soon get over it. When your horse refuses to take up an oat, consider him as having failed. To make your horse fast, tie him with halters. Look carefully after the bits of your horse, or you may soon be looking after the bits of your wagon. If you have a proper address you may receive a couple of lines from a horse, but on no account drop a line. However you may be attached to your horse, you must be certain that your horse is well attached to your carriage.

"What keeps Mr. N——from kirk, James?" said a worthy minister. I hope it's not Methodism." "No," responded the verger; "it's something worse than Methodism." "What then! Is it Calvanism?" "Worse, your reverence, worse!" "Surely, James, it is not deism?" "Much worse, an' it please your reverence, than even that." "Good Heavens!" said the astounded pastor, "can it be atheism which deprives us of the best church warden that ever shook a box?" "Truly," responded pious James, "'tis a much more serious matter; it is rheumatism!"

An unknown man about thirty years old is in the practice of loafing around the dental offices on Woodward avenue, and whenever he sees a victim about to go up stairs he confronts him and asks: "Got the toothache?" "Yes—Oh! blazes! yes!" is the reply. "And you are going to have it pulled?" "Y-e-s, I guess so." "That's right, you'll think the whole top of your head is coming off when he pulls! It's awful to have a tooth jerked! I wouldn't have one pulled for a thousand dollars; but then if you are bent on it go ahead. I'll see you when you come out, and in case of any accident I'll go for a doctor." And the toothache goes right away then, and the victim goes right home.—[Detroit Free Press.

About this time expect signs of a severe or mild Winter to be pointed out by those estimable persons whose peculiar fully takes the directions of weather wisdom. The muskrats have dug holes with bay windows and rear extensions on them, but, on the other hand, the beavers do not appear to consider the prospects of a severe Winter worth more than an average dam. The ground-hogs have laid in more than their usual supply of cordwood, and the red squirrels are putting up double windows, but the bark on the northeast side of dogs is not as thick as usual, and the crows have deferred purchasing passage tickets till after New Year's. Altogether the signs are contradictory, and not likely to induce a downward movement in coal.—[Chicago Tribune.

One of the low tricks to which tradesmen sometimes resort is shown in the latest story from New Hampshire: Two Nashua merchants were recently running each other on stockings. The first trader marked down the specimens at his door, and, after his rival had passed and noted the change, resumed the former prices. The trick was repented every morning for a week or more, until the second trader was selling stockings which cost at wholesale twenty five cents for five cents. This was the first trader's opportunity. He engaged the service of several girls and boys, and before the second trader was aware of the fact his whole stock of stockings had been transferred to the counter of his rival at five cents per pair, and were being sold by him as 'a bankrupt lot—at a great sacrifice'—and yet at a splendid profit."

DEAN SWIFT'S LILLIPUT IN TENNESSEE.—The original country of the Lilliputians which Dean Swift so graphically describes in his version of Gulliver's travels, and which has mystified the geographers as much as the sources of the Nile, seems to have been in Tennessee. In the neighborhood of Sparta in that state there are cemeteries in which the bodies of the pigmy race have been found in considerable numbers, encased in sandstone coffins. Prof. Henry of the Smithsonian Institute has recently visited the place, exhumed one of the skeletons and brought it to Washington. It is evidently that of a full-grown adult, twenty-six inches high, and the thigh bones are a little larger than a man's fore-finger. In proximity to the skeletons were found pieces of pottery which show signs of having been once filled with charcoal, and the discovery opens up a new field of scientific investigation like that which was opened by the discovery of the "skeleton in armor" at Fall River and the hieroglyphics upon Dighton rock in Massachusetts.

WEATHER MAXIMS.—'Old Probabilities' has formulated the results of his observations for New England as follows:

1. As a rule, if the wind touches northeast or east for two or three days, it is a sure indication of rain.
2. Dense smoke and haze in early morning portend falling weather.
3. Summer showers of light character often follow two or three days of smoke or haze.
4. Fog, frost, and dew precede rain 24 to 48 hours, except fog at close of storm.
5. Wind veering from north or west to south and southeast, precedes falling weather.
6. Halos, lunar and solar, also fairly defined and brilliant auroras, precede rain 24 to 60 hours.
7. Barometer rising or falling considerably away from its mean forbodes falling weather, subject to modifying influences of the neighboring ranges of mountains and hills.
8. Precipitation generally follows a rapid influx or efflux of atmosphere.
9. If wind is in northwest and rain sets in, the rain is of short duration and light yield.
10. Banks of watery clouds or heavy haze on south or southeastern horizon indicate rain.
11. An area of low barometer at or near Fort Monroe, and running up the coast, surely reaches here as a northeaster.

CHOICE OF RELIGIONS.—The British army regulations are very strict in regard to religious observances. The regimental colors have often been prayed over and consecrated by the archbishop of Canterbury, and the privates as well as officers are obliged to attend upon the regular services of the army chaplain, whether in camp or in field. To illustrate the powerful influence of this kind of discipline in keeping the army up to a good standard of piety, a Capt. Malet recently told a good story at a public dinner as having occurred within the range of his observation. A recruit was asked by his commanding officer what religion he professed, in order that he might go to his proper place of worship. He said he had not made up his mind and was in no hurry to join church. The officer handed the recruit over to the sergeant and said: "Sergeant, here is a man who hasn't made up his mind as to what religion he is. Give him every opportunity. March him to the Romanist service at 7.45, to the Church of England parade at 9.15, to the Presbyterian worship at 11," and so on, filling up the day with devotion. The recruit, he said, soon chose the ministrations of the chaplain that had the shortest service and always continued in the faith of that denomination.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

LECTURE AT THE OPERA HOUSE BY THE HON. SCHUYLER COLFAX.—LINCOLN'S GREATNESS AND HIS ODDITIES. HIS DEVOTION TO PRINCIPLE.—HIS LEANING TOWARD MERCY'S SIDE.

The Opera House was again crowded last evening, the occasion being the Hon. Schuyler Colfax's lecture on Abraham Lincoln. Mr. Colfax was felicitously introduced by Col. Stedman.

It was impossible, he said, to give more than a generalizing view of the man and of the times or to take more than a retrospective glance of history in the compass of a brief hour's lecture. Abraham Lincoln was born in a floorless cabin of Kentucky, of poor and uneducated parents. As he laughingly owned, himself, they were called "scrubs," from the fact that they owned no slaves, and his hatred to slavery was born with him and strengthened with his strength. In after life, though restrained from striking at slavery with his full force, from his respect for constitutional limits, he never ceased to regard it with detestation, and in the early part of his political career, gave utterance to the sentence that comprises a whole volume, "If slavery is not wrong then nothing is wrong." Mr. Lincoln early gave in his adhesion to the Republican party, having narrowly escaped a nomination for Vice President on the unsuccessful ticket of 1856. In 1858 he struck his first blow at the deadly upas tree. Having received the unanimous nomination of his party for Senator from Illinois, he placed himself far beyond the line of his party and his supporters by calmly uttering the axiom, "The government cannot exist half slave and half free," and in his memorable canvass with Judge Douglas, refused to retreat, and thus unconsciously became the prophet of the new dispensation that was to annihilate slavery forever and ensure liberty for all. In 1861 he refused to arm slaves, or to endorse the proclamation of Fremont, Hunter and Phelps, defending his position by saying that it was the duty of the faithful surgeon to save both life and limb, if possible, though the limb be gangrened, and that it was his duty to save the Union whole if he could, but to sacrifice a part if all other means failed. So after forbearance had ceased to be a virtue, he very calmly and solemnly performed the grandest act of the century in issuing the emancipation proclamation. It is not generally known that he did not publish in September, 1862, the proclamation which he had written two months previously, and which granted immediate emancipation without the loss of a single hour, but at the beginning of the the new year he did issue the proclamation giving preliminary warning. The hundred days passed and the rebel leaders were more insolent than ever; so he became the liberator of America and redeemed the promise he had made to God. Every word was freighted with more than human wisdom, and at once lifted our cause above the level of politics, into the great arena of a contest for human right.

That Lincoln was a man of sound judgment is generally conceded, but the operations of his mind were so peculiar that to all, except his intimate friends, he frequently seemed strange and inconsistent. His judgment acted slowly and he was so in the habit of expressing colloquially all the arguments against his policy for the purpose of having them rebutted, if possible, that he frequently surprised both friends and foes by his final decision. But when he once put down his foot, no power could make him take a step backward. He once told me that as a lawyer, he was in the habit of analyzing his cases from his opponent's side, and in a law practice of nearly half a century, had never once been surprised by the strength of his antagonist's case, although he had often found it weaker than he expected. To a delegation of Chicago ministers, who came to urge him to issue an emancipation proclamation, he replied: "If I cannot enforce the national constitution in the South, how can I hope to enforce a mere Presidential proclamation? Will it not give our enemies a chance to sneer at it as a second edition of the Pope's bull against the comet?" and yet in nine days after he issued the very proclamation. Mr. Lincoln was remarkable for his sturdy self reliance, that refused to yield at the persuasion or dictation of his own party friends, or the denunciation of his enemies, and for his high standard of political action, based upon conscience and the eternal principles of right. He frequently illustrated his faith in principle by the parable of the builders upon the rock and upon the sand. There is no parallel in ancient or modern history of so merciful a ruler or one who put down so bloody a rebellion with so little punishment. In the words of Whittier:

"The first to smile, the first to spare
When first the hostile ensigns fall."

He rose equal to every emergency, rising year after year to the height of every occasion, strengthened as the roots of a tree are by every storm. His conservative temperament made him slow to act, and he was criticised by one party as much for being too slow as by the other for being too fast. Time was Lincoln's prime minister, and George William Curtis has aptly characterized him by saying that he had so accurately gauged the public sentiment, that when he moved the loyal hearts of the nation kept step. If he had armed the slaves before the tide of patriotic enlistment had ebbed, there would have probably been dangerous discontent, and uprising.

Particularly during the early part of the war he was persistently beset by office-seekers, and likened his position to a man who was too busy letting rooms in one part of his house to put out a fire in another. At one time, when he was attacked with small pox, he laughingly told his attendant to admit all the office-seekers, as he now had something which he could give them all. These stories were but the mask over the gloomiest sorrow, and his anxieties and sufferings were intense. At one time the lecturer saw him one morning in the White House after the reception of disastrous news, and was struck with his sadness and paleness of countenance. To an inquiry as to the cause, Lincoln replied that he had not closed an eye that night, or breakfasted, and he would willingly change places with any soldier that slept on the ground in the army of the Potomac.

The lecturer illustrated Lincoln's peculiar faculty for answering argument and of putting aside importunity or annoyance by a number of his well-known stories, and dilated upon his tenderness of heart that made him unfit, in the words of Attorney General Bates, to exercise the pardoning power, giving many touching instances of his kindliness even in cases that could not be justified by policy.

He was utterly free from personal animosity or political prejudice, making it a practice never to read diatribes or attacks upon him of any kind, saying that if he succeeded they would be forgotten, and if he failed he would go down with his country. In his inaugural after his second election, he said that he could not exult in the defeat of those who differed from him politically.

In conclusion, the lecturer alluded to Lincoln's religious views, and said that although he was not a professed member of any church, he had an abiding faith in God and in the Bible, particularly during his later life. A very eloquent peroration closed the lecture.

It is no small affair to hold the office of mayor of London. A man of moderate fortune cannot perform the duties of the office, as in addition to the $50,000 allowed him to pay his "expenses," he has to spend as much more from his private purse to pay for all the banquets and balls he is in duty bound to give, besides disbursing largely to public charities. COURT OF COMMON PLEAS.

THURSDAY—FOURTH DAY.

Our report yesterday closed with the retirement of the jury in the case of Butterfield and Coffin vs. Daniel Brown, at 12 o'clock noon. The court took no recess but kept on with the business until the hour of final adjournment.

The case of state vs. James Douglas, brought under the dog law, and appealed from the justice court, was argued to the court by Mr. Sheffield for the defense and Mr. Peckham for the state, upon technical objections to the warrant made by Mr. Sheffield, and was held for judgment.

The case of the state against the boys Patrick Byrnes and Michael Stack for robbing the till of Mr. William T. Dennis on Broadway was continued.

The appealed case of the state against Elijah Macomber for keeping his store open on Sunday, appealed from the justice court, was opened to the jury at 1:10 by Mr. Peckham, city solicitor for the prosecution, with Mr. Sheffield for the defence.

Mr. Macomber is a Sabbatarian, and as such claims the privilege of his religious belief to keep Saturday holy and to work on Sunday as a secular day.

This case was given to the jury at 2.10, Judge Burges having charged that if it has been proved clearly that the respondent had store open on Sunday for the purpose of trade he was guilty of a violation of the law, and no question of the righteousness or constitutionality of the law could be entertained in this court, but only in the supreme court, the highest judicature of the state. In this court and in this case we must take the law as we find it.

At two o'clock P. M., the jury in the case of Butterfield & Coffin against Daniel Brown came into court and rendered a verdict for the plaintiffs for the sum of five dollars and seventy cents—that amount being just what the defendant admitted to be due the plaintiffs.

The jury in the case of the state against Elijah Macomber for violation of the Sunday law came into court after an absence of fifteen minutes and rendered a verdict of guilty. Mr. Sheffield, his counsel, took exceptions upon which the case was certified up to the supreme court in order to test the constitutionality of the law—as infringing the sacred right of religious liberty. Mr. Macomber recognized in the sum of one hundred dollars to prosecute his appeal in March next.

At two o'clock and thirty five minutes, the business of the court having been completed so far as was ready for completion, the court was adjourned to meet according to law on the third Monday of May 1876.

A SCHOONER SUNK.

SCHOONER ROBIN STRIKES WHALE ROCK AND SINKS IN FIVE MINUTES.—NO LIVES LOST.—THE CREW RESCUED BY THE KEEPER OF DUTCH ISLAND LIGHT.

The schooner Robin, Capt. Warren, of Millbridge, Me., with 210 tons of coal from Weehawken for Wainwright & Co. of New Bedford, struck Whale rock two miles this side of Narragansett Pier at nine o'clock last evening and sunk at once. The crew, so sudden was the shock, and the foundering of the vessel, had no time to save anything, but the clothes they stood in. Their cries for assistance were heard by George W. Fife, the keeper of the Dutch Island light house, who at the risk of his life, went to the assistance of the sailors and succeeded after a long pull in getting them to comfortable quarters at the light house. Mr. and Mrs. Fife were unremitting in their kindness to Capt. Warren and his crew and after getting them some hot coffee and food found beds for them. This morning Mr. Fife brought them to this city and reported the disaster to J. & L. Coggeshall.

Capt. Joseph F. Warren makes the following statement: We started from Weehawken, N. J., for New Bedford with a cargo of 210 tons of coal on Tuesday, Nov. 9th. We were towed through Hellgate and owing to the heavy gale, anchored at Bucker's island about 7 P. M., where we lay until Thursday morning, the 11th, when we again got under weigh and sailed as far as Block Island channel where we lay becalmed until Saturday morning, the 13th, when we took a heavy northeast gale and went back to New London where we arrived at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. We left New London Thursday noon, the 18th, and continued on toward New Bedford, passing Point Judith at 7 P. M. the same day. The weather being thick and threatening we ran in for Dutch Island harbor. It was very dark, and there were dashes of snow: the sea was very rough and the compass not being in order at 9 P. M. we struck on Whale rock, where the schooner now lies with the sea breaking over her and will probably be a total wreck.

Captain Warren desires to express his thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Fife for their attention to him and his crew.

The vessel is not insured, but it is believed that the cargo is. The schooner lies with one foot of water over her deck and is a dangerous obstruction to passing vessels.

STATE MISCELLANY.

The result of the coroner's investigation in the locomotive boiler explosion case was that the boiler was defective. The jury recommend the appointment of inspectors of locomotive boilers.

In Seekonk, on the 16th, Mrs. Annie L. Waterman and two children were found in their room insensible from coal gas escaping from the stove, the damper of which was improperly turned. One child was soon restored, but the other died yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Waterman was restored to consciousness but is in a critical condition. She lost her husband last Spring and a brother last week.

Ransom N. Kenyon, who lives near Ponce Dale, had his cellar robbed of a barrel of pork, a few nights since. The thieves greased the hinges of his cellar door and then forced the lock, entered the cellar and made off with their plunder. They also carried off a quantity of pickles. It is hoped that the rascals will be caught. Mr. Kenyon is a poor man, and the loss is quite severe to him.

The farmers on Boston Neck are suffering the loss of large numbers of fowls by foxes.

At a meeting of the Young Men's Lyceum, of South Kingstown, in Roger Williams Hall, the question was debated, "Which is the greater evil—laziness or drunkenness?" The question was decided in favor of laziness.

A newspaper is a window through which men look out on all that is going on in the world; without a newspaper a man is shut up in a small room, and knows little or nothing of what is happening outside of himself. In our day the newspapers keep pace with history and record it. A newspaper will keep a sensible man in sympathy with the world's current history. It is an unfolding encyclopedia, an unbound book, forever issuing and never finished.

OUR NEXT ROYAL VISITOR.—His Majesty Don Pedro, of Brazil, who is coming to visit us next year, is now in the fifty-first year of his age, though his white hair and beard make him look much older. In stature he is nearly six feet two inches; erect as a lance—just a little inclined to be portly; his presence is at once imposing and commanding. He possesses a cultivated mind, an inquiring nature, liberal and comprehensive views, an intimate acquaintance with modern science, and a practical knowledge of five or six languages; he is perfectly familiar with every subject likely to be discussed in cultivated society in any Christian city in the world. In manner he is earnest, affable and agreeable. During a recent prolonged journey through the province of Sao Paulo he firmly refused to allow any one to "speechify," on any pretext whatever, whether on the occasion of his reception, presentation or departure. This will be a sad blow to municipal orators, should he adhere to this iron rule during the period of his stay in the United States.

REMUS.

The violets that you gave are dead—
They could not bear the loss of you;
The spirit of the rose has fled—
It loved you, and its love was true;
Back to your lips that spirit flies,
To look beneath your radiant eyes.

Only the ashes bide with me—
The ashes of the fulmed flowers—
Types of a rapture not to be;
Sad relics of bewildering hours;
Poor, frail, forlorn, and piteous shown
Of errant passion's wasted store.

He grandly loves who loves in vain!
These withered flowers that lesson teach:
They suffered; they did not complain;
Their life was love too great for speech:
In silent pride their fate they bore;
They loved, they grieved, they died—no more.

Far off the purple banners flare,
Beneath the golden morning spread;
I know what queen is worshipped there,
What laurels wreathe her lovely head.
Her name be sacred in my thought,
And sacred be the grief she brought!

For since I saw that glorious face,
And heard the music of that voice,
Much beauty's fallen to disgrace
That used to make my heart rejoice;
And rose and violet ne'er can be
The same that once they were to me.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

THE NEW REMINGTON.

[From the Boston Post of Oct. 14th.]

Last evening a large number of gentlemen, by invitation, assembled at the formal opening of their new business house, No. 146 Tremont street, for the purpose of inspecting the recent wonderful improvement, which they have invented and applied to sewing machines. The principal features in these machines are their simplicity and durability. While the company do not deprecate other machines, they claim that theirs are so complete as to overcome all the objections that are found in other shuttle sewing machines. The machine and attachments were minutely examined by several prominent inventors and mechanicians and pronounced to be the most perfect and labor saving sewing machines in this country or Europe.

This popular machine is the labor of Mr. J. W. Jones, (the inventor of the Singer) who, in conjunction with Mr. Remington and the large facilities afforded by his immense works for the successful improvement and simplifying of what has heretofore been considered very intricate and difficult, has brought out what he terms the "Remington," a machine entirely divested of cog-wheels and rotary cams, and as perfect in all its particulars as good workmanship can make it. The superior productions of these machines and their elegant finish will make them highly popular.

A Well-Merited Success.

As contrasted with fortunate charlatanism, well-merited success is less frequent than it ought to be. Puffery, blatant assertion, and coined recommendations, too often, for instance, give an ephemeral popularity to medicinal compounds intrinsically worthless at the expense of really deserving remedies, and to the grievous detriment of the sick. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, a tonic alterative which has achieved one of the best merited and most signal successes of the nineteenth century, has never relied upon such methods of manufacturing a reputation, nor has the competition of counterfeit tonics ever affected its reputation in the slightest degree. That it is the best remedy for malaria, and the surest safeguard against it; that it eradicates dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation, disorders of the kidneys and bladder, and the various causes which produce weakness, are implicit and well founded beliefs with the great body of the American people. nov17-n&j

LYON'S KATHAIRON prevents the Hair from falling out or turning gray, renews its growth, and gives strength and vigor. It is delightfully perfumed, and makes a splendid dressing. It is the cheapest and most desirable Hair Tonic ever produced. Used by the elite. Price only 50 cents. aug3-1yr.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, FOR THE CURE OF CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, AND COLDS.

The great virtue of this medicine is that it ripens the matter and throws it out of the system, purifies the blood, and thus effects a cure.

SCHENCK'S SEA WEED TONIC, FOR THE CURE OF DYSPEPSIA, INDIGESTION, &C.

The Tonic produces a healthy action of the stomach, creating an appetite, forming chyle, and curing the most obstinate cases of Indigestion.

SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS, FOR THE CURE OF LIVER COMPLAINT, &C.

These Pills are alterative, and produce a healthy action of the liver, without the least danger, as they are free from calomel, and yet more effectual in restoring a healthy action of the liver.

These remedies are a certain cure for Consumption as the Pulmonic Syrup ripens the matter and purifies the blood. The Mandrake Pills act upon the liver, create a healthy bile, and remove all diseases of the liver, often a cause of Consumption. The Sea Weed Tonic gives tone and strength to the stomach, makes a good digestion, and enables the organs to form good blood; and thus creates a healthy circulation of healthy blood. The combined action of these medicines, as thus explained, will cure every case of Consumption, if taken in time, and the use of the medicines persevered in.

Dr. Schenck is professionally at his principal office, corner SIXTH and ARCH STREETS, Philadelphia, every Monday, where all letters or advice must be addressed. nov4 1m

FIRE ALARM REGULATIONS.

To send out an alarm.

Any person who discovers a fire is requested to immediately give the alarm by crying fire, and, going to the box nearest the fire, to send out a general alarm by procuring the key, unlocking the box, and firmly putting the hook down, once only, then closing the door, being careful to see that it is locked, and returning the key.

The person sending out an alarm from a box is requested to remain near said box until the first engine arrives, to direct the firemen to the exact locality of the fire.

Cautions.

Never pull a box if the small gong inside is striking or the machinery of the box is heard running.

Do not pull a box for a fire seen at a distance, or unless you are aware of the locality of a fire.

Key holders are requested not to allow their keys to be taken except by responsible parties.

Bell Ringers.

Bell ringers are engaged to ring the following church bells in connection with the telegraphic alarm:—

The First and North Baptist, United Congregational and Emmanuel with instructions to ring their respective bells for five minutes immediately after the telegraphic alarm has completed its four rounds and then to repeat eight times the number of the box from which the alarm is sent.

Recall.

Nine blows upon the telegraphic alarm bells will indicate that the fire is out and that the services of the department are not required.

Testing the Apparatus.

One stroke on the bells by the telegraphic alarm will simply indicate that the apparatus is in good order.

LOCATION OF BOXES AND KEYS.

Box No. 2.—On Lyzander Stevens's house, Thames street, opposite Bridge street.

Keys at Lyzander Stevens's and Daniel C. Denham's.

Box No. 3.—Mrs. Sylvanus Wilbour's house, corner of Touro and Spring streets.

Box No. 4.—Downing's Block on Downing street near Bellevue avenue.

Box No. 5.—On J. T. Burdick & Co's store, corner of Thames street and Brown & Howard's wharf.

Keys at J. T. Burdick & Co's store, C. H. Burdick's, Thames street and Thomas Chamberlain's, corner Brown & Howard's wharf.

AGRICULTURAL.

GENERAL RULES.

"1. Drain and irrigate. 2. Plow deep and loosen the subsoil. 3. Provide good storage room for solid manures and cisterns for the liquid manures. 4. Choose commercial fertilizers intelligently, and do not use one in excess of another simply because others have used it. 5. Manure every crop which benefits by it, and manure high. 6. Cultivate only safe, paying crops and select the best seed for these. 7. Cultivate every crop upon your fields and in the proper rotation. 8. Cultivate more and better fodder. 9. Feed plentifully and of the best fodder. 10. Breed stock, and let no mere accident control the increase. 11. Support breeding and feeding by proper care. 12. Keep accounts."

HORSES SUFFER BY BAD ROADS.

We are all grumbling about our roads and our surveyors. The roads are miserable and our system of making and repairing them is miserable, too, but we do not realize how much we are losing by continuing to use them in their present condition. The annual expense for wear and tear of horses, carriages and harness is enormous, but the loss from carrying only half the load we might on smooth, hard and level roads is very much greater. Supposing a horse can pull on a level road 1000 pounds, on a road rising one foot to the hundred he could pull but 900 pounds. If it rises two feet in a hundred 810 pounds, two and a half feet 620 pounds, four feet 520 pounds, five feet 490 pounds, and if the rise were ten feet in a hundred he could pull but 250 pounds, or only one-quarter the load he could draw on a level road. Then, again, the condition of a road, whether hard and smooth, or soft and uneven, has much to do with the amount a team can draw over it.

FARM FIGURES.

The census of 1870 shows an aggregate of 2,660,000 farms in the United States, but it does not give the average number of occupants. As the average size of the farms is 153 acres, it is a fair estimate that there are eight persons in each household, and consequently there are 21,280,000 people engaged in farming, or a little more than one half the entire population of the whole country. Of farms of between 20 and 50 acres there were 818,000; and between 50 and 150 acres there were 754,000. The total value of farms was $9,283,000,000, and the total value of farming implements and machinery was $336,878,429. These farms produced in 1870 761,000,000 bushels of corn, 288,000,000 bushels of wheat, 382,000,000 bushels of oats, 17,000,000 bushels of rye, 30,000,000 bushels of barley, and 10,000,000 bushels of buckwheat. Besides these enormous crops of the cereals there were produced 3,000,000 bales of cotton, each averaging 400 pounds; 27,000 pounds of flax, and nearly 13,000 tons of hemp. The farmers mowed and cured in that single year 27,000,000 tons of hay, and also raised 25,000,000 pounds of hops, 75,000,000 pounds of rice and 263,000,000 pounds of tobacco. Louisiana and Texas produced 87,000 hogsheads of sugar and 24,000,000 gallons of molasses. Of maple sugar there were raised 28,000,000 pounds and of Irish potatoes 142,000,000 bushels. Such, in brief, are some of the most important products of the United States, and they indicate that there is no country in the world, which for soil, climate and diversity of crops can compare with our country.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean is not happy. With almost audible sobs, it tells the President how it supported him in the Louisiana business, and wants to know how he could so cruel as to make fun of the "rag" and talk hard money.

AMERICAN AND FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY.

SOLICITOR OF PATENTS.

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs,

No. 76 State St., opp. Kilby St., Boston.

AFTER AN EXTENSIVE PRACTICE of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms, with despatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse." CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office." EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.

"Mr. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part, leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges."
